WM. WALSH & CO.

WASHINGTON, July 21.-In this disthat the poorest way to get money is to earn it. The young man of flaunting urse Dr. Talmage shows that there is a tendency to excuse brilliant faults, because they are brilliant, when the same law of right and wrong ought to be applied to high places and low; text, Daniel iv, 33, "The same hour was the thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar, and rendering the complex to and he was driven from men and did eat grass as oxen."

> than did all his predecessors or successors. Hanging gardens, reservoirs, aqueducts, palaces, all of his own planning. The bricks that are brought up today from the ruins of Babylon have his name on them, "Nebuchadnezzar, son of Nabopolassor, king of Babylon.' He was a great conqueror. He stretched forth his spear toward a nation, and it surrendered. But he plundered the temple of the true God. He lifted an idol, Bel Merodach, and compelled the people to bow down before it, and if they refused they must go through the redhot furnace or be crunched by lion or lioness. So God pulled him down.

> He was smitten with what physicians call lycanthropy and fancied that he was a wild beast, and he went out and pastured amid the cattle. God did not excuse him because he had committed the sin in high places or because the transgression was wide resounding. He just as he would measure the humblest halo around iniquity if it is committed of pig iron in conspicuous places and if it is wide resounding and of large proportions. Ever and anon there has been an epidemic of crime in high places, and there is not a state or a city and hardly a village which has not been called to look upon astounding forgery, or an absconding bank cashier or president, or the wasting of trust fund or swindling mortgages. I propose, in carrying out the suggestion of my text, as far as I can, to scatter the fascinations around iniquity and show you that sin is sin and wrong is wrong, whether in high place or low place, and that it rip, and parchments would rend, and will be dealt with by that God who dealt with impalaced Nebuchadnezzar.

Morality of the Gospel. All who preach feel that two kinds of sermons are necessary-the one on he faith of the gospel, the other on the morality of the gospel-and the one is inst as important as the other, for you know that in this land today there are hundreds of men hiding behind the communion tables and in churches of Jesus Christ who have no business to be there as professors of religion. They expect to be all right with God, although they are all wrong with man. And, while I want you to understand that by the deeds of the law no flesh living can be justified and a mere honin New York selling silks to a lady. est life cannot enter us into heaven, I want you as plainly to understand that unless the life is right the heart is not right-grace in the heart and grace in the life. So we must preach sometimes the faith of the gospei and sometimes the morality of the gospel.

It seems to me there has not been a time in the last 50 years when this latter truth needed more thoroughly to be presented in the American churches. It needs to be presented today. A missionary in the islands of the Pacific preached one Sabbath on honesty and dishonesty, and on Monday he found his yard full of all styles of goods which the natives had brought. orders, they | He could not understand it until a native told him, "Our gods permit us to purloin goods, but the God you told us about yesterday, the God of heaven and earth, it seems, is against these practices, and so we brought all the goods that do not belong to us, and they are in the yard, and we want you to help us to distribute them among their rightful owners." And if in all the pulpits of the United States today rousing sermons could be preached on honesty and the evils of dishonesty, and the ser-mons were blessed of God, and arrangement should be made by which all the goods which have been improperly taken from one man and appropriated by another man should be put in the city halls of the country, there is not a city hall in the United States that would not be crowded from cellar to cupola. Faith of the gospel-that we must preach and we do preach.

Morality of the gospel we must just as certainly proclaim. Now, look abroad and see the fasciferent styles of crime. The questions have been: Should crime be excused be- der which you are in that store, and I divine prerogative he touches the lowcause it is on a large scale? Is iniquity guilty and to be pursued of the law in proportion as it is on a small scale? Shall we have the penitentiary for the taken care of us all these years, and he man who steals an overcoat from a will take care of us now. Come out of hatrack and all Canada for a man to | that. range in if he has robbed the public of

Look upon all the fascinations thrown around fraud in this country. You know for years men have been made heroes of and pictorialized and in various ways presented to the public, as though cometimes they were worthy of admiration, if they have scattered the funds of banks or swallowed great estates that did not belong to them. Our young men have been dazed with this quick accumulation. They have said: conviction of the party or "That's the way to do it. Young men looked up and said: "He was a peddler in tion, and money for the suffering goes one decade, and in the next decade he is one of the monarchs of the stock market. That's the way to do it." To and subsidies and supplies and salaries this day the evil influence of that profligate financier has been felt, and within the past few weeks he has had conspicuous imitators. There has been an irresistible impres-cravat says to the young man of humble apparel: "What! You only get $1,-800 a year? Why, that wouldn't keep me in pin money. I spend $5,000 a year." the plain young man. He has his hand in. Now, if he can escape the penitentiary for three or four years he will get into political circles, and he will get political jobs and will have something to do with harbors and pavements and docks. Now he has got so far along he is safe for perdition.

It is quite a long road sometimes for a man to travel before he gets into the romance of crime. Those are caught who are only in the prosaic stage of it. neasured Nebuchadnezzar in high place If the sheriffs and constables would only leave them alone a little while, they would steal as well as anybody. But in our time, you know as well as They might not be able to steal a whole I, that there is a disposition to put a railroad, but they could master a load

Now, I always thank God when I find an estate like that go to smash. It is plague struck, and it blasts the nation. I thank God when it goes into such a wreck it can never be gathered up again. I want it to become so loathsome and such an insufferable stench that honest young men will take warning. If God should put into money or its representative the capacity to go to its lawful owner, there would not be a bank or a safety deposit in the United States whose walls would not be blown out, and mortgages would gold would shoot, and beggars would get on horseback, and stock gamblers would go to the almshouse How many dishonestles in the making out of invoices, and in the plastering of false labels, and in the filching of customers of rival houses, and in the making and breaking of contracts. Young men are indoctrinated in the idea that the sooner they get money the better, and the getting of it on a larger scale only proves to them their thrown around about all these things. Young men have got to find out that God looks upon sin in a very different light. A young man stood behind a counter and he said before the sale was consummated, "I see there is a flaw in that silk." The lady recognized it, and the sale was not consummated. The head man of the firm saw the interview, and he wrote home to the father of the young man, living in the country, say-"Dear sir-Come and take your boy. He will never make a merchant." The father came down from the country home in great consternation, as any father would, wondering what his boy had done. He came into the store, and the merchant said to him, "Why, your son pointed out a flaw in some silk the other day and spoiled the sale, and we will never have that lady probably again for a customer, and your son never will make a merchant." "Is that all?" said the father. "I am proud of him. I wouldn't for the world have him another day under your influence. John, get your bat and coat. Let us start." There are hundreds of young men under the pressure, under the fascinations thrown around about commercial iniquity. Thousands of young men have gone down under the pressure; other thousands have maintained their integrity. God help you! Let me say to you, my young friend, that you can be a great deal happier in poverty than you ever can be happy in a prosperity which comes from ill gotten gains. "Oh," you say. "I might lose my place. It is easy for you to stand Besides that, I have a widowed mother know what she will say to you if she is worthy of you. She will say: "My False to Their Trust.

> Now, do not come under the fascination which induces men to employ trust funds for purposes of their own nesty. Remember the example of Wellington, who when he was leading the British army over the French frontier, and his army was very hungry French frontier, and some of the men wanted to take it, said: "Soldiers, do of us. He will take care of the English army. Plenty of plunder, I know, all around, but do not take it." told the story afterward himself, how that the French people brought to him their valuables to keep-he supposed to be their enemy-brought him their valuables to keep. And then, he said, at a time when the creditors of the army were calling for money and for pay all the time, and they had so much all around about, he did not feel it right for him to take it or for the army to take it.

Oh, that God would scatter these fascinations about fraud and let us all understand that if I steal from you $1 I am a thief, and if I steal from you $500,000 I am 500,000 times more of a | aches to call them back. Society to Blame.

So there has been a great deal of fascination thrown around libertinism. Society is very severe upon the impulow haunts of the town. The law pursues it, smites it, incarcerates it, tries to destroy it. You know as well as I that society becomes lenient in proportion as impurity becomes affluent or is elevated circles, and finally society silent or disposed to palliate. Where is the judge, the jury, the police officer, that dare arraign the wealthy libertine walks the streets; he rides the parks; he flaunts his iniquity in the eyes of the pure. The hag of uncleanness looks out of the tapestried window. Where is the law that dares take the brazen wretches and put their faces in an iron frame of a state prison window?

Sometimes it seems to me as if socicty were going back to the state of morals of Herculaneum, when it sculptured its vileness on pillars and templ wall and nothing but the lava of a burning mountain could hide the immensity of crime. At what time God upon society I know not nor whether he will do it by fire or hurricane or earthquake, but a holy God, I do not think, will stand it much longer. I believe the thunderbolts are hissing hot and that when God comes to chastise the community for these sins, against which he has uttered himself more bitterly than against any other, the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah will be tolerable as compared with the fate of our modern society, which knew better, but forgiveness. did worse.

We want about 10,000 pulpits in America to thunder, "All adulterers and whoremongers shall have their place in the hell that burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death." It is bell on earth and hell forever. We have got to understand that iniquity on Columbia beights or Fifth avenue or Beacon bill is as dam nable in the sight of God as it is in the slums. Whether it has canopled couch or eiderdown or dwells amid the putridity of a low tenement house, God is after it in his vengeance. Yet the pulpit of the Christian church has been so cowed down on this subject that it hardly dares speak, and men are almost apologetic when they read the Ten Commandments. Then look at the fascinations thrown around assassination. There are in all there and talk, but it is no easy thing communities men who have taken the to get a place when you have lost it. lives of others unlawfully, not as executioners of the law, and they go scot depending upon my earnings, and you free. Society is alert for certain kinds of son, come out from there. God has murder. Stand independent of all such influences. Put your confidence in the Lord God. He will be your strength. "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord." Cultivate old fash loned honesty. Four Plain Questions.

There are hundreds of young men who have good blood. Shall I ask three or four plain questions? Are your habits as good as when you left your father's house? Have you a pool ticket in your pocket? Have you a fraudulent document? Have you been experimenting to see how accurate an imitation you could make of your employer's signature? Oh, you have good blood. Remember your father's prayers. Re member your mother's example. Turn not in an evil way. Have you been going astray? Come back. Have you ventured out too far? As I stand in pulpits looking over audiences sometimes my heart fails me. There are so many tragedies present, so many who have sacrificed their integrity, so many far away from God. Why, my brother, there have been too many prayers offered for you to have you go overboard. And there are those venturing down into sin, and my heart

At Brighton Beach or Long Branch you have seen men go down into the surf to bathe, and they waded out farther and farther, and you got anxious about them. You said, "I wonder if they can swim?" And you then stood and shouted: "Come back! Come back You will be drowned!" They waved their hand back, saying, "No danger." They kept on wading deeper down and farther out from shore until after awhile a great wave with a strong undertow took them out, their corpses the next day washed on the beach. So I see men wading down into sin farther and farther, and I call to them: "Come back! Come back! You will be lost; you will be lost!" They wave their band back, saying, "No danger; no danger!" Deeper down and deeper down until after awhile a wave sweeps them out and sweeps them off forever. Oh, come back! The one farthest away

"Oh," you say, "you don't know where I came from. You don't know what my history has been. You don't know what iniquity I have plotted. I have gone through the whole catalogue of sin." "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." Though you have been polluted with the worst of crimes, though you have been smitten with the worst of leprosles, though you have been fired with all evil passions, this moment on your brow, hot with iniquitous indulgences, may be set the flashing coronet of a Saviour's

When the quantity of food taker goes by will have more money than that man who one week previous boasted that he controlled the money market.

Oh, there is such a fearful fascination in this day about the use of trust funds: It has got to be popular to take the funds of others and speculate with the funds of others and speculate with them. There are many who are praction.

There are many who are practice.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, beartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been until the community has forgotten all about it, and then the prison door opens, and the murderer goes free.

Now, if capital punishment be right I say let the life of the polished murter goes free deer go with the life of the vulgar assistant. Let us have no partiality of the stomach after eating, indicating the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take
